

January 21, 2026

Esteemed Members of Congress,

We, the undersigned Indivisible and related groups from across the United States (and abroad), ask you to issue an official condemnation of the Trump administration's unlawful invasion of Venezuela, its extrajudicial killings in the Caribbean and its covert or explicit threats of invasion, domination or coercion directed at several countries in the Western Hemisphere. We also ask that you immediately conduct hearings looking into the above-mentioned actions.

The people of the United States elected a president in November of 2024; but Donald Trump is operating like a tyrant, and his cabinet is supporting his efforts in this regard. Only a tyrant would flout international law, Congress's Article I powers, the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) and our post-World War II international order. Only a tyrant would seek power and personal aggrandizement through the seizing and control of other countries' oil and other resources. Only a tyrant would attempt to divert American voters' attention from his problems at home (longstanding involvement with our country's most infamous pedophile, deep corruption and the enrichment of his family and his cronies, worsening economic woes for 90 percent of the population) through reckless and criminal actions abroad.

Trump's actions in Venezuela and the Caribbean encourage similarly unlawful actions, from other countries (particularly Russia and China) and from non-state actors; this, combined with Trump's threat to take over Greenland, destabilizes our entire post-World War II global framework of alliances and agreements, and makes Americans more vulnerable both overseas and at home.

We urge Congress to reassert its Article I powers by standing firmly in opposition to the above-mentioned actions of our tyrant, as strongly and boldly as our founders stood in opposition to King George III in 1776.

Sincerely,
